EnviroChemie acquires DLK Technologies SA

EnviroChemie AG in Switzerland is gaining strength with the acquisition of DLK Technologies SA, enhancing both its market presence and its product portfolio.

On 12 December 2023, EnviroChemie AG from Eschenbach, Switzerland, took over DLK Technologies SA based in Le Locle in western Switzerland.

DLK has been providing solutions for the treatment and recycling of industrial wastewater and materials for over 30 years. The company's compact biological plants enhance EnviroChemie's product portfolio of compact, standardised wastewater treatment plants. Marc Vuilliamenet will remain CEO of DLK Technologies.

"EnviroChemie has already been active in western Switzerland for many years. We hope that the takeover of DLK Technologies will underline the importance of the market in western Switzerland and bring us even closer to our customers," explains Nico Siegenthaler, CEO of EnviroChemie AG.

"Joining the EnviroWater Group makes us part of the leading team in the Swiss market. This will allow us to guarantee high-quality support for our customers in the long term, which is my dearest wish," says Marc Vuilliamenet.

DLK Technologies' corporate philosophy makes it an excellent fit for EnviroChemie. Both companies work with and for their customers to develop systems for sustainable and efficient water use. The holistic solutions help the companies handle resources responsibly and protect the environment.
